Addendum to Anthony Singleton BLWt2068-300

I know very well that in the early part of the year 1776 Capt. Anthony Singleton went from Williamsburg to the Southward in the duty of Deputy Muster Master, under Colo. William Yates [VAS2067] Muster Master General, and that shortly after his return in January or February 1777, he was appointed a Captain in the first Regiment of artillery, and from what I can now recollect he was at the time of the latter appointment still in the character first mentioned.

I Jonathan Clark [VAS2169] formerly a Lieut Colonel in the eighth Virginia Regiment do certify that Captain Anthony Singleton was a Muster Master or a Deputy Muster Master in the year one thousand seven hundred and seventy six, but at what time he received his appointment I know not – but I well recollect that at Hadrells Point and I believe in the month of July in that year he mustered the eighth Virginia Regiment. [see endnote] The eighth Regiment was afterward annexed to the fourth Regiment.
