[Methodology: Spelling, punctuation and/or grammar have been corrected in some instances for ease of reading and to facilitate searches of the database. Where the meaning is not compromised by adhering to the spelling, punctuation or grammar, no change has been made. Corrections or additional notes have been inserted within brackets or footnotes. Blanks appearing in the transcripts reflect blanks in the original. A bracketed question mark indicates that the word or words preceding it represent(s) a guess by me. Only materials pertinent to the military service of the veteran and to contemporary events have been transcribed. Affidavits that provide additional information on these events are included and genealogical information is abstracted, while standard, 'boilerplate' affidavits and attestations related solely to the application, and later nineteenth and twentieth century research requests for information have been omitted. I use speech recognition software to make all my transcriptions. Such software misinterprets my southern accent with unfortunate regularity and my poor proofreading fails to catch all misinterpretations. Also, dates or numbers which the software treats as numerals rather than words are not corrected: for example, the software transcribes "the eighth of June one thousand eighty six" as "the 8th of June 1786." Please call errors or omissions to my attention.]

written discharge from his Captain Andrew Wallace by the orders of his Colonel Buford but whether the discharge was signed by Wallace or Buford he does not remember -- he states that his discharge has long since been lost, indeed after the War he placed no value upon it, not supposing it would ever be of any Service to him he states that he lives at a distance of 24 miles from Knox Court house by the usual traveling route, that he has postponed this application because he was unwilling to accept the proffered bounty of the Government as long as he was able to work and make a living without it, but being pressed by his friends, and by his poverty he has at last consented to proffer his claim
