[Methodology: Spelling, punctuation and/or grammar have been corrected in some instances for ease of reading and to facilitate searches of the database. Where the meaning is not compromised by adhering to the spelling, punctuation or grammar, no change has been made. Corrections or additional notes have been inserted within brackets or footnotes. Blanks appearing in the transcripts reflect blanks in the original. A bracketed question mark indicates that the word or words preceding it represent(s) a guess by me. The word 'illegible' or 'indecipherable' appearing in brackets indicates that at the time I made the transcription, I was unable to decipher the word or phrase in question. Only materials pertinent to the military service of the veteran and to contemporary events have been transcribed. Affidavits that provide additional information on these events are included and genealogical information is abstracted, while standard, 'boilerplate' affidavits and attestations related solely to the application, and later nineteenth and twentieth century research requests for information have been omitted. I use speech recognition software to make all my transcriptions. Such software misinterprets my southern accent with unfortunate regularity and my poor proofreading skills fail to catch all misinterpretations. Also, dates or numbers which the software treats as numerals rather than words are not corrected: for example, the software transcribes "the eighth of June one thousand eighty six" as "the 8th of June 1786." Please call material errors or omissions to my attention.]

State of Alabama Tuscaloosa County SS

On this Sixth day of October personally appeared in open court before the Judge of the Circuit Court of said State, now sitting in said County, George Darden a resident of said County and State, aged Sixty-nine years on the 21st of January 1832, who being first duly sworn according to law, doth on his oath make the following declaration in order to obtain the benefit of the Act of Congress passed June 7th 1832.

That in the month (perhaps the last day) of February 1779, he entered the military Service of the United States as a militia man, (whether by draft or volunteering not recollected) in defense of the people of Georgia, &c against the Cherokee Indians, who were then fighting the whites as allies in aid of the Kingdom of Great Britain, under Captain Cunningham & Major Burwell Smith & Colonel John Dooly, in the County of Wilkes in the State or Colony of Georgia, served fifteen or twenty days had an engagement with said Indians, killed nine of them & rescued considerable plunder they were taking off from the whites. That about the first of April 1779, he again entered the service of the United States as a militia man, in the settlement of Long Cane, in the State of South Carolina (whither he & others had fled for refuge from the hostile Indians) under Captain John Cowen (Major not recollected) & Colonel Andrew Pickens, and served four months to about the first week in August, during which tour he was in the Battle of Stono [June 20, 1779] under the command of General Lincoln [Benjamin Lincoln]. That about the first of September of the same year he again entered the service of the United States against Great Britain, in the said Settlement of Long Cane in the State of South Carolina, under the said Captain Cowen, who led his company immediately into Georgia, joined the Georgia Troops, commanded by Colonel Dooly aforesaid & marched to the Siege of Savannah² under his command where we joined the American Army under General Lincoln, who was aided by & associated with General Pulaski who was killed at said Siege: the Count d'Estaing was also there & was wounded, perhaps in the arm. After the expiration of said Siege the Company to which he was attached returned into South Carolina & were discharged from the Service about the 25th of December 1779. That he has no documentary evidence of his service aforesaid and that he knows of no person, whose testimony he can procure, who can testify to his service.

He hereby relinquishes every claim whatever to a pension or annuity except the present and declares that his name is not on the Pension Roll of the Agency of any State.
