[Methodology: Spelling, punctuation and/or grammar have been corrected in some instances for ease of reading and to facilitate searches of the database. Where the meaning is not compromised by adhering to the spelling, punctuation or grammar, no change has been made. Corrections or additional notes have been inserted within brackets or footnotes. Blanks appearing in the transcripts reflect blanks in the original. A bracketed question mark indicates that the word or words preceding it represent(s) a guess by me. The word 'illegible' or 'indecipherable' or 'undeciphered' appearing in brackets indicates that at the time I made the transcription, I was unable to decipher the word or phrase in question. Only materials pertinent to the military service of the veteran and to contemporary events have been transcribed. Affidavits that provide additional information on these events are included and genealogical information is abstracted, while standard, 'boilerplate' affidavits and attestations related solely to the application, and later nineteenth and twentieth century research requests for information have been omitted. I use speech recognition software to make all my transcriptions. Such software misinterprets my southern accent with unfortunate regularity and my poor proofreading skills fail to catch all misinterpretations. Also, dates or numbers which the software treats as numerals rather than words are not corrected: for example, the software transcribes "the eighth of June one thousand eighty six" as "the 8th of June 1786." Please call material errors or omissions to my attention. Researchers should not rely solely on the transcripts but should review the originals for themselves. These transcripts are intended as an aid to research, not to be used in lieu thereof.]

He then entered the service in the Spring of the year "eighty" under Captain John Martindale for two months—He substituted himself for a man by the name of Scales—marched under Captain Martindale and Major Bullock to Cupboard Creek near Augusta in Georgia. There Colonel Purvis had command—staid there two months and did nothing—returned home at the expiration of the two months. In the month of June or July in the year "eighty" he volunteered under Captain Roebuck and continued in the service off and on until after peace was made. He first marched after he returned to the Battle of Musgroves [sic, Musgrove's Mill, August 18, 1780]—was in the battle of Musgrove under Colonel Cleveland, Shelby and Campbell¹; after the battle retreated into North Carolina through the mountains and there staid some five months—then marched back to Morgan's camp on Packolet [sic, Pacolet River]—there staid a few days and fell in under Captain

Farrow [could be Farrar]. From thence [we] marched to the Cowpens under Morgan and was in the battle [January 17, 1781] under Col. Thomas. After the battle [we] retreated under General Morgan into North Carolina then marched back under Captain Farrow into ninety six district; was there ranging about until General Green [sic, Nathanael Greene] besieged "ninety six" [may 21-June 19, 1781]—then went under Colonel Brannan [sic, Thomas Brandon] to the siege of ninety six which was conducted under General Greene. From ninety six [we] retreated back to Broad River under Colonels Brandon and John Thomas—There ranged about for some time and then fell under the command of Colonel Pickens and Colonel Casey—under these officers [we] went down to Orangeburg; crossed Edisto [River] and defeated the Tories camps; ranged about under Colonel Thomas til about the first of April—was in a fight with the Tories—his captain Thomas Farrow was badly wounded—was then ordered to guard his Captain til he recovered for about thirteen weeks—Then ranged about til peace was concluded—During a part of this time he enlisted under Captain Smith for one month to hunt for the Tories—He is confident that he served more than two years during the war and claims pay for the same—He was in the battles of Musgrove's Mill, Cowpens, and Tiger [sic, Tyger, probably a reference to the battle of Blackstocks him, November 20, 1780] River—was also in the siege of "ninety six" and had several skirmishes—He knew General Morgan, General Greene, recollects Colonel Washington & Colonel Marion—does not recollect the names of any continental regiments—He was born in Prince William County, Virginia on the first day of October "57"—Has no record of his age—has lived in Spartanburg and Laurens districts, South Carolina ever since the Revolutionary [War]—never rec'd any written discharge. He can prove as fact of his services by Captain Thomas Farrow [could be Captain Thomas Farrar] under whose command he served some time. He has no papers or documentary evidence of his services—James [?] and Mr. Gillam and Mr. Langston are his neighbors and can testify as to his character for truth and good behavior and reputation as a soldier of the revolution--He hereby relinquishes every claim whatever to a pension or annuity except the present and declares that his name is not on the Pension Roll of the Agency of any State.

Personally appeared John Farrow Senior before me, who being sworn says, that the following amendment to his Declaration & proceedings generally made for the purpose of obtaining the benefit of the Act of Congress passed 7th of June 1832 is true to the best of his knowledge memory & believe.

As to the grade or rank in which he served, it was, throughout the whole term of his service that of a private --

His first term of service was as follows --

He entered the service early in the Fall of the year 1779 under Captain John Ford -- was drafted for 2 months & is confident that this term of his service was not less than 2 months as to the precise date of the month on which the aforesaid term of service commenced & ended he cannot now be particular -- but as to the time he is certain as above stated upon reference to his original Declaration he finds that the names of his officers are mentioned under whom he served at this time -- the places where these services was performed -- & that part of the time he was stationed & part of the march as he thinks will appear from his Declaration. His 2nd term of service commenced the latter part of the year 1779 & terminated early in the year 1780 & did not consist of less than 2 months & of this he speaks with certainty -- His Captain was John Ford -- Ford & his Company were under the command of Colonels Hampton & Thomas & for a large portion of this. They were encamped at Blackstocks Ford on Tyger River.

His 3rd Term of service Commenced in the spring of 1780 embracing the months of March & April -- applicant is certain that this term expired before the Fall of Charleston which to the best of his recollection was the 1st of May 1780 -- of this he is confident it did consist of less than 2 months.

His Captain at this time was a man by the name of Martindale -- Major Bullock & Colonel Purvis word the superior officers The other facts required as to this period of his service he finds are stated in his Declaration. His 4th Term of service commenced on the 20th of July 1780 as a volunteer under Captain Benjamin Roebuck & was under his command till the 15th of January 1781, on which day he fell under the command of Captain Thomas Farrow, for he distinctly remembers they were marching to the Cowpens on the 16th & that the battle occurred on the 17th of the same month.

This term embraces 5 months & 15 days Benjamin Roebuck was his Captain as aforesaid until he fell under the command of Captain Farrow as aforesaid -- the superior officers were Colonels Thomas & White -- During this period he was engaged in a desultory warfare against the Tories in larger or smaller companies as the exigencies of the times required. -- He was almost constantly traversing the Country -- always under the command of a Competent Officer & he believes entirely within the limits of that portion of Country then called Ninety-Six District.

His 5th Term of service he dates from the aforesaid 15th of January 1781 till the first day of July 1781, the time at which the siege of 96 was abandoned, making 5 months & 15 days.

Roebuck and Colonel Washington we were in the battle there we marched with Morgan some distance and Colonel White with a part of the Regiment turned back to keep the Tories under I with others [2 indecipherable words] then saw it necessary to Join Colonel Brannons [sic, Thomas Brandon's] men for safety for the Tories then were numerous and powerful we continued with Colonel White and Colonel Brandon till General Greene came and laid siege to Ninety Six we joined his camps when Greene retreated our Regiment staid in our own State sometimes we were after the Tories and British and sometimes the Tories and British were after us after having scrimmages till April 1782 when I got very badly wounded in a fight with the Tories then Colonel White ordered my men to guard me and moved me to his own house I only detained a few the rest then went under Captain Ford after about 4 months I got well enough to go into the service again and my men returned under my command and about February 1783 we joined Colonel Casey and other Colonels who marched to Orangeburg and helped to Defeat a great body of Tories in the Edisto Swamps we killed a good many of the Tories and destroyed their camps and when we marched back Colonel Casey told us we might go home if he wanted us he would let us know John Farrow was with me sometimes at Colonel White's where I lay wounded and sometimes with Captain Ford on short tours after I returned to the service he was with me Colonel Casey' verbal discharge was all I got in the whole tour -- that I think continued upwards of 2 years and I think that about half the duty we done in the revolutionary war and to the best of my Recollection I believe the above statement to be true.

Sworn and subscribed before made this 13 day of March 1833.
