[Methodology: Spelling, punctuation and/or grammar have been corrected in some instances for ease of reading and to facilitate searches of the database. Where the meaning is not compromised by adhering to the spelling, punctuation or grammar, no change has been made. Corrections or additional notes have been inserted within brackets or footnotes. Blanks appearing in the transcripts reflect blanks in the original. A bracketed question mark indicates that the word or words preceding it represent(s) a guess by me. The word 'illegible' or 'indcipherable' appearing in brackets indicates that at the time I made the transcription, I was unable to decipher the word or phrase in question. Only materials pertinent to the military service of the veteran and to contemporary events have been transcribed. Affidavits that provide additional information on these events are included and genealogical information is abstracted, while standard, 'boilerplate' affidavits and attestations related solely to the application, and later nineteenth and twentieth century research requests for information have been omitted. I use speech recognition software to make all my transcriptions. Such software misinterprets my southern accent with unfortunate regularity and my poor proofreading skills fail to catch all misinterpretations. Also, dates or numbers which the software treats as numerals rather than words are not corrected: for example, the software transcribes "the eighth of June one thousand eighty six" as "the 8th of June 1786." Please call material errors or omissions to my attention.]

State of Kentucky Rockcastle County Kentucky

On this 7 day of June 1842 personally appeared in open Court before the Justices for the County Court of Rockcastle Kentucky now sitting S. T. Ellis, C. Cleason, & George Houk Justices Barnabas (commonly called Barnaby) Haily [sic] a resident Citizen of the United States in the County of Rockcastle and State of Kentucky on the 18 March 1818, aged 83 years in the month of January last who being first duly sworn according to law doth on his oath make the following declaration in order to obtain the benefit of the Acts of Congress of the 18th of March 1818 And of the Act of Congress passed June 7, 1832. That he entered the service of the United States in the Army of the United States in the Continental line of Virginia in the year of 1776 as he now believes and as to the time of that year he thinks it was in the winter or early in the spring owing to the loss of memory it may have been in the first part of the winter 1777. It was at Charlotte Court house of Virginia: he entered the service as an enlisted soldier in the state line (as he supposes) on Continental establishment for the period and term of three years under Captain John (he thinks that the given name) Brunt, or perhaps it was Blunt, which he will not be certain. To what Regiment he belonged at the time he does not know, but shortly after he enlisted, he was placed with Captain Brunt in the Regiment (called as he believes the Rifle Regiment) commanded by Colonel Daniel Morgan on Continental establishment and very shortly afterwards he was marched by Colonel Morgan to the White Plains and joined General Washington as he was told and so understood. In a few weeks after the Army moved to "Valley Forge" and either shortly before war after Colonel Morgan as he understood was either promoted or was assigned to some other service and the Command of the Regiment devolved, or appointed to and Officer of the Regular Army, Colonel Lamb. His memory does not serve him to say whether he belonged to Morgan's Regiment or not. While encamped at Valley Forge, and after he had faithfully [served] and without and omission the term of eleven months and some five days under his enlistment, his father, John Hailey, and his grandfather Barnaby Wells [could be Barnaby Wills] arrived at Valley Forge with a man by the name of Absalom Hughes. After they had consulted with the head officers, Hughes was received as a substitute in his stead to complete the term of his enlistment (three years, and he received a written discharge in full of his term of enlistment from his Captain aforesaid and was also signed by the Colonel whose name he believes to have been Lamb as aforesaid. The discharge was given in camp at Valley Forge. Many years after he frequently saw and read his discharge, but which has long since been lost, destroyed or mislaid so that he cannot account what became of it, except he did not then supposed it was or would be of any service to him and neglected to preserve it. He did not wish to leave the Army but being young he was compelled to do so by his father and as he understood by the distressed state of mind of his mother in consequence of his enlistment. He understood and so believes that to procure Hughes to take his place, his father and grandfather gave him 100 acres of land in Charlotte County Virginia. At the time of his enlistment he resided with his father in Charlotte County State of Virginia. He was in no battles. The Country through which he passed and was marched he cannot describe owing to the loss of memory, and it being difficult to understand what is said to him in consequence of deafness, he cannot call to mind any [indecipherable word] in the Country or the names of towns which they passed until they arrived at White Plains, having as he supposes as well as he now remembers marched the most direct route from where they joined Colonel Morgan they were marched to the White Plains; the March being a hurried one as it was said Washington was in great need of reinforcements, a big British Army being near at hand and an attack expected. He will further state as well as his memory now serves him his discharge took place in the [year] 1777 and a few weeks, 3 or 4 before the battle of Brandywine where as he understood his substitute Hughes took a part in the battle. While at White Plains he frequently saw General Washington and went upon reviews and passing the lines. In addition to the officers he has named, that he remembers their names are the officers he has named His Lieutenant was William Collins, his mess was Joseph Hailey, John Burris, Travis Gill, Tom Porterd [?] and two of the [indecipherable name]¹ all listed when he did. He knows of no person by whom he can prove his enlistment aforesaid or the term of his service aforesaid.

He hereby relinquishes every claim whatever to a pension or annuity except the present and he declares that his name is not on the Pension Roll of any Agency in any State. Sworn and subscribed the day and year aforesaid.
