From thence he was marched to White planes [sic: White Plains NY], here he remained under the command (he thinks) of Capt. [James] Baytop until the principal army which had marched to that place returned to Middlebrook in The Jerseys, with them he did not march but a short distance, but remained at some little town the name of which he does not now recollect, for several months being unable to march from a severe rising upon the right jaw, when he recovered he marched to Middlebrook in the Jerseys where he received his discharge, his discharge has been burnt or lost He remained in the tour just mentioned for twelve months, having been drafted for that length of time. He then remained at home for about two years, and then served three months in the Militia, the name of the capt he does not now recollect. He marched to Yorktown in the State of Virginia, and was at the surrender of Lord Cornwallis [19 Oct 1781], he was then discharged, and his discharged is lost or mislaid. He hereby relinquishes every claim whatever to a pension or annuity except the present and that his name does not appear upon any pension roll of any agency in any State. [signed] Jacob Agee

NOTE: On 13 May 1833 John Agee, 68, deposed that he had known Jacob Agee for as long as he could remember and distinctly recollected his having been absent at the times stated in his declaration. On 5 Dec 1866 Mary H. Snoddy, 71, the only surviving child of Jacob Agee, applied for a new copy of her father's pension certificate to obtain the pension money that he had not collected for a long period before his death in May 1838, "he being well off and not dependent upon his pension for a support," and her own means of subsistence then being "very limited."
