[Methodology: Spelling, punctuation and/or grammar have been corrected in some instances for ease of reading and to facilitate searches of the database. Where the meaning is not compromised by adhering to the spelling, punctuation or grammar, no change has been made. Corrections or additional notes have been inserted within brackets or footnotes. Blanks appearing in the transcripts reflect blanks in the original. A bracketed question mark indicates that the word or words preceding it represent(s) a guess by me. The word 'illegible' or 'indecipherable' or 'undeciphered' appearing in brackets indicates that at the time I made the transcription, I was unable to decipher the word or phrase in question. Only materials pertinent to the military service of the veteran and to contemporary events have been transcribed. Affidavits that provide additional information on these events are included and genealogical information is abstracted, while standard, 'boilerplate' affidavits and attestations related solely to the application, and later nineteenth and twentieth century research requests for information have been omitted. I use speech recognition software to make all my transcriptions. Such software misinterprets my southern accent with unfortunate regularity and my poor proofreading skills fail to catch all misinterpretations. Also, dates or numbers which the software treats as numerals rather than words are not corrected: for example, the software transcribes "the eighth of June one thousand eighty six" as "the 8th of June 1786." Please call material errors or omissions to my attention. Researchers should not rely solely on the transcripts but should review the originals for themselves. These transcripts are intended as an aid to research, not to be used in lieu thereof.]

On this 13th day of October 1832 personally appeared in open Court, before the Judge of the Circuit Court of said State now sitting in said County, Charles Holland, a resident in the County aforesaid, aged Seventy four years on the 2nd day of April last, who being first duly sworn according to law, doth on his oath make the following declaration, in order to obtain the benefit of the act of Congress passed June 7, 1832.

That he entered the service of the United States under the following named officers and served as herein stated: namely, that he volunteered, sometime in the month of September (as well as he can recollect) 1776, in a company of militia under the command of Captain James McCall, in the District then called Ninety Six, now Abbeville, in the State of South Carolina, that said company was attached to a Regiment, or corps of men, under the command of Major Andrew Williamson or Wimson, the Colonel, if any, not recollected; that he continued with Captain McCall until about a month July 1777, when the Captain was taken prisoner by the Indians & this relator was transferred to a militia company commanded by Captain Andrew Pickens, in the same Regiment; that soon after this, Williamson was promoted to the command of the Regiment & Captain Pickens was made the Major & one Thomas Weems became the Captain, who was previously Lieutenant under Pickens – that after the lapse of two years or more, Captain Weems resigned and one Joseph Pickens was promoted to the captaincy of said Company, under whom the relator served twelve months & more, until the battle of Ninety Six [Siege of Ninety Six, May 21-June 19, 1781],¹ in which battle Captain Joseph Pickens was wounded mortally and died in about three weeks; that some time (say three months before the battle of Ninety Six), Colonel Williamson deserted to the British and Major Andrew Pickens became the Commandant of this Regiment; and one Alexander Noble became Major; that after the death of Captain Joseph Pickens, one William Strain was promoted to the captaincy in his place, under home this relator served until the end of the War with Great Britain; -- that during his service, which in all was, as near as the relator can remember, about seven years, he performed the following tours & acted in the battles & skirmishes mentioned below – he volunteered, as before stated, in the District of Ninety Six, at a place of rendezvous about thirty five miles from the Town of Ninety Six; he then marched to the town of Ninety Six to meet & give battle to the Tories who had assembled in the vicinity of that place; that on arriving at Ninety Six, the Regiment to which he was attached was met by a Regiment of regular troops from Charleston City, under the command of Colonel Henry William Drayton [sic, William

Henry Drayton], at whose approach the Tories dispersed & fled. He & regiment then returned to the neighborhood in which they were raised & in a short time had to return to Ninety Six for the same purpose just mentioned, when a fight ensued between the Regiment and the Tories in which there are were two Whigs wounded & one killed; some time after this, Captain McCall & a part of his company, including this relator, were detailed to go into the Indian Nation in the Northern part of the State of Georgia, after some Tories who had retreated there, when the Indians made an attack upon said detachment, killed several men & wounded several others, and took Captain McCall & another prisoners; that after the surrender of Charleston (in which battle this relator was not engaged) this relator & about forty others of the same company retreated for protection into the state of North Carolina where they remained about eight months, during which time they had several skirmishes with the Tories in the upper edge of South Carolina; about this time General Morgan [Daniel Morgan] passed in to North Carolina & was joined by this relator & those with him who had retreated as aforesaid & shortly after ensued the battle of the Cowpens or Tarleton's Defeat [January 17, 1781],² in which, he was wounded by a sword thrust through the body, which disabled him for active service for two or three months; previous to Tarleton's Defeat (this relator forgot to mention) he partook in the battle of King's Mountain [October 7, 1780]³ where Ferguson [Patrick Ferguson], the British commander was killed & defeated by the American troops commanded by Colonels Shelby [Isaac Shelby], Cleveland [Benjamin Cleveland], Sevier [John Sevier], Campbell [William Campbell], McCall [James McCall] and perhaps Clarke [Elijah Clarke]; that after Tarleton's Defeat, the next engagement in which the relator acted, was the battle of Hanging Rock [August 6, 1780],⁴ where he again received a wound, which was a shot wound in the groin; this proved comparatively slight; next after this, to say nothing of skirmishes at Ramsour's mill [June 20, 1780],⁵ Hammon's [sic, Hammond's] old store [December 29, 1780],⁶ William's Fort [March 2, 1781],⁷ &c came the Siege of Ninety Six, where General Greene [Nathanael Greene] commanded, in which relator took part & it was the last battle in which he was engaged during his service; this claimant is unable to name particularly any of the Continental Regiments or companies with which he served; he has already named several regular officers & now are numbers that he did not name General Sumter [sic, Thomas Sumter] Commanded at the Hanging Rock; he has no discharge in writing or other documentary evidence of his services.

He hereby relinquishes every claim whatever to a pension or annuity except the present, and declares that his name is not on the pension roll of the Agency of any State.
