State of Tennessee; Wilson County;

On this 27th day of May A.D. 1851, personally appeared before the undersigned a Justice of the peace, and of the County Court, in and for said State and County Nancy Dew, a resident of Wilson County, in the State of Tennessee, aged eighty-nine years who, being first duly sworn according to law, doth on her oath, make the following Declaration in order to obtain the benefit of the provision made by the acts of Congress passed July 7th 1838, March 3rd 1843, June 17th 1844, and February 2nd 1848, That she was married to John Wright, who was a private Soldier in the Army of the Revolution from Warren County, in the State of North Carolina, and who enlisted as she thinks, some time in the year 1779 for a tour of eighteen months, as she has always understood from her husband in his lifetime, but that she does not recollect the name of his Capt. or Col., nor the number of his Regiment, although she has heard her husband mentioning their names, but that at the date of that enlistment she was not acquainted with the said John Wright, and therefore only gives the facts as narrated by him, that after the expiration of this term of service he came to live at her father's house to run the Hatter's trade, where he remained but a short time, before he went into service again saying "that all the young men in the neighborhood had gone out, and that he could not stay by himself," she thinks that this time he enlisted for twelve months, and that it was in the year 1780 and that during this tour he was at "Gates Defeat," that after he was discharged and returned home to wit of the __ day of April in the year 1781, she was married to the said John Wright in Warren County, in the State of North Carolina, by a Justice of the Peace, that the first child of herself Tempy Wright, that her husband the said John Wright, after having removed to do (or near) Landersville in the State of Georgia, died on the 19th day of July in the year 1795, that she was afterwards married to John Dew, in Washington County in the State of Georgia, on the 9th day of March in the year 1797, that her husband, the said John Dew, moved from Washington County Georgia to Wilson County, Tennessee, where he died on the 11th day of October 1823 that she was not married to the said John Wright prior to his leaving the service, but the marriage took place previous to the first of January 1794, viz. at the time above stated. She further swears that she has no documentary or record proof in support of her claim except a part of an old family were record, which is genuine, and which he attaches hereto that she remembers many years ago having seen the Discharge of her first husband John Wright, and also of her second husband John Dew who was also a Revolutionary Soldier, which Discharges were Walsh or destroyed many years ago. She further declares that a portion of the old family record containing the marriage of herself with the said John Wright, was taken by her son Benjamin Wright, to McNairy County, Tennessee, but she does not know whether he has still preserved it, or not. She further declares that in consequence of great lapse of time, old age, and loss of memory, she cannot give the names of any of the officers under whom either of her husband served with any degree of certainty or any further particulars in relation to their said services, and she has already given, nor does she know of anyone now living by whom she can prove their services, and therefore relies upon the old original records, if any such be in existence. She further declares that she has not again intermarried since the death of said John Dew, but still remains his widow, she therefore asked to be allowed a Pension under the Acts before recited, at such a rate as in justice she may be entitled to.

Sworn to and subscribed before me the date above written.

State of Tennessee: the Wilson County;

On this 27th day of May A.D. 1851, personally appeared before the undersigned a Justice of the Peace, and of the County Court in and for said County and State, Nancy Dew, a resident of Wilson County, in the State of Tennessee, aged eighty-nine years, who being first duly sworn according to law doth on her oath make the following Declaration, in order to obtain the benefit of the provision made by the Act of Congress passed July 29th, 1848;

That she is the widow of John Dew, who was a Sgt. in the Army of the Revolution for the lower part of the State of North Carolina she thinks from the neighborhood of New Bern, and who enlisted as she thinks for during the War, sometime in the year 1779, or the first of the year 1780, that he continued to serve to the end of the War, and was at the Battle of Guilford Court House, that she does not recollect the names of his officers, but thinks his Capt. or Col. was named "Dixon" nor is she certain that she is correct as to the date of his enlistment, although she has repeatedly seen his discharge, but which was lost or destroyed many years ago, that he continued in the service until the close of the War, as she always understood from him, after which he removed to Washington County, in the State of Georgia, where after the death of her first husband, John Wright, she was married to the said John Dew on the 9th day March in the year 1797 as appears from her original family record which he attaches hereto and which is genuine and which contains the date of her marriage; that her husband, the said John Dew, removed from Washington County, Georgia to Wilson County Tennessee where on the 11th day of October 1823, he died; that since his death she has not again intermarried, but still remains the widow of said John Dew deceased, that she has no other record or documentary evidence by which to prove her marriage, and that above mentioned, and that she does not know of anyone, now living, by whom to prove his services; that she has not heretofore applied for a Pension, that the first child of herself and the said John Dew was born in the year 1798, and that in consequence of great lapse of time and loss of memory, she cannot give any further particulars in relation to his said services, she therefore relies upon the traditionary evidence hereto annexed, and the old original records if any such are in existence, she therefore request that she be allowed a Pension under the said Act of Congress passed July 29th, 1848, at such a rate, as she may be in justice entitled to, she further declares that previous to her marriage to John Dew, she was the Widow of John Wright, who was also a Soldier in the Revolutionary War, and whose services are set forth in her first Declaration as of date claiming a Pension on account of his services under Acts of July 7th 1838 etc., that she was married to John dew, by one Samuel Whittaker a Justice of the Peace, that previous to her marriage with her first husband the aforesaid John Wright, her name was Nancy Tarver.

Sworn to & subscribed before me the day and year above written.

Nashville, Tennessee

Dear Madam:

Reference is made to your letter in regard to John Dew, a soldier of the Revolutionary War.

The data furnished herein are obtained in the papers on file in revolutionary War pension claim, W. 2722, based upon the military service of John Dew in that war.

John Dew, the son of John and Judy, his wife, was born January 4, 1764, place not stated.

While residing near New Bern, North Carolina, he enlisted in 1779, or the first of the year 1780, served as sergeant, a part of the time under Capt. or Col. Dixon, in the North Carolina Troops, was at the battle of Guilford Court House and was discharged at the close of the war.

After the Revolution, he lived in Pitts County [sic, Pitt County], North Carolina; moved from there to Washington County, Georgia, and thence to Wilson County, Tennessee.

He died October the 11 or October 31 (both dates appear in the claim), 1823, in Wilson County, Tennessee. At one time he was a senator in the legislature of Tennessee and was later a minister of the Gospel.

John Dew married July two, 1786, Mrs. Rocky Cannon, the daughter of John and Mary Cannon. Rocky was born January 12, 1756, and died in Washington County, Georgia, April 17, 1796.

John and Rocky Dew had the following children:

Matthew or Matthew T. Dew

born November 9, 1787,

died April 26, 1832;

William C. Dew	born November 27, 1790,	married February 23, 1819, Janet Bradley, who died March three, 1819. married June four, 1819, Ann Roland. He was living in Wilson County, Tennessee, in 1851.
