[Methodology: Spelling, punctuation and/or grammar have been corrected in some instances for ease of reading and to facilitate searches of the database. Where the meaning is not compromised by adhering to the spelling, punctuation or grammar, no change has been made. Corrections or additional notes have been inserted within brackets or footnotes. Blanks appearing in the transcripts reflect blanks in the original. A bracketed question mark indicates that the word or words preceding it represent(s) a guess by me. The word 'illegible' or 'indecipherable' or 'undeciphered' appearing in brackets indicates that at the time I made the transcription, I was unable to decipher the word or phrase in question. Only materials pertinent to the military service of the veteran and to contemporary events have been transcribed. Affidavits that provide additional information on these events are included and genealogical information is abstracted, while standard, 'boilerplate' affidavits and attestations related solely to the application, and later nineteenth and twentieth century research requests for information have been omitted. I use speech recognition software to make all my transcriptions. Such software misinterprets my southern accent with unfortunate regularity and my poor proofreading skills fail to catch all misinterpretations. Also, dates or numbers which the software treats as numerals rather than words are not corrected: for example, the software transcribes "the eighth of June one thousand eighty six" as "the 8th of June 1786." Please call material errors or omissions to my attention. Researchers should not rely solely on the transcripts but should review the originals for themselves. These transcripts are intended as an aid to research, not to be used in lieu thereof.]

That he entered in the service of the United States and served as herein stated: lived in Lawrence [sic, Laurens] County now called; but at that time Ninety Six District South Carolina. First volunteered as a ranger for three months in August 1780 under Captain Lard [sic, Robert Laird] and Major Kilgore [Benjamin Kilgore]; served in guarding the frontier against the Indians and Tories who were out with them this tour was commenced in August 1780 and that he served in Said tour three months—That he volunteered a Second time in December 1780 under Captain Laird, Major Kilgore and General Andrew Pickens and went to the Cherokee Country. This second time was commenced in December 1780 served at this time one month—volunteered a third time under Captain Dillard [James Dillard], Colonel Casey's [Levi Casey's] Regiment and served as a mounted Ranger whenever called upon until peace was declared. This third term of service was commenced in January 1781 and continued til November 1782. Always ready at a moment's warning and was in actual service three months under Captain Dillard in said last or third term of service making in all seven months actual service in the aforementioned terms. Part of the third tour was in pursuit of the Tory Cunningham and party who had murdered seventeen Americans in my neighborhood or within about eighteen miles from me. We pursued them to Edisto River in the Edisto Swamps. The whole of the above mentioned service I served as a private soldier.

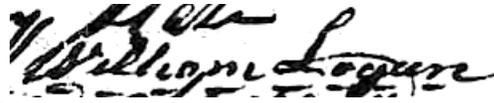

He states that he has no documentary evidence of Service and knows of no person except James Keever¹ and Robert Templeton² who can testify to his services.

He hereby relinquishes every claim whatever to a pension or annuity except the present and declares that his name is not on the pension roll of the agency of any State.

State of Indiana Franklin County:

On this 11th day of August 1835 personally appeared before the Probate Court of Franklin County now sitting William Logan a resident of Fairfield Township in the County aforesaid and State aforesaid, aged seventy-three years, who being first duly sworn, according to law, doth on his oath make the following declaration in order to obtain the benefit of the provision made by the act of Congress passed June 7th 1832 --

³ Robert Hanna \(Hannah\) R4574

That he entered the service of the United States under the following named officers, and served as herein stated.

That he was born in Ireland (in the kingdom of Great Britain) on the 3rd day of August 1762. That he has no record of his age but thinks it from the statements of his parents while they were living -- that he emigrated from Ireland to South Carolina in the year 1766. That he lived in Lawrence district [sic, Laurens District] South Carolina from that time all through the period of the revolutionary war, and until the year 1805 when he removed to Franklin County Indiana, where he has since resided and still resides. --

That he volunteered as a private soldier in the South Carolina militia under Captain Lard and Lieutenant Gilbert McNairy and Colonel Williams [James Williams] Regiment Captain Kilgore [Benjamin Kilgore] was the Captain of the Company when he entered, but his place was very soon taken by Captain Laird. That he entered the above company in June 1780 and served three months in guarding the frontier against the Indians and Tories, and served the whole time in guarding the frontier of Ninety Six District -- Catleles [sic, Cathie's ?] Station was our head quarters for the ranging companies -- we were in no battles during this tour of service all the service here was on horseback. The first of November 1780 he entered a 2nd time as a private volunteer soldier in the same company under General Andrew Pickens on an expedition to the Cherokee country -- the cause of this expedition was the taking of Lindley's Fort by the Indians -- they took seventeen prisoners from the Fort -- our companies under Pickens pursued them and about forty miles from the Fort, we came to the dead bodies of the prisoners who had all been murdered by the Indians and left in a peach orchard at an Indian Town called Kewee or Chotee -- there we encamped till we were reinforced from Georgia -- we then pursued on to the middle settlements in the Indian Country -- had some skirmishes with the Indians and Tories, and shot several and burned what we could find -- but was in no regular battle. That he served [text obliterated by an ink blot] during this tour.

That he volunteered a third time in the South Carolina militia in the company of Captain Dillard and commenced my service under him the first of July 1781 -- one of the tours of service under Captain Dillard was the pursuit of the Tory Cunningham [William "Bloody Bill" Cunningham] -- we came near to Cunningham near to Ninety Six and having heard that he had one hundred men and we having but fifty -- Major Kilgore who was commanding, ordered us to [indecipherable word] in all directions and meet him at Pott's on Enoree River and take with us then all the Whigs we could find -- we did so and from Potts went again in pursuit of Cunningham, and overtook him near the Edisto River they had crossed and encamped on the British side of the River we crossed over and attacked them about daybreak one morning -- we found them encamped in parties, at the first encampment we killed all but one and wounded him, at the second encampment we found Cunningham, and a large party, they all escaped by swimming the River, Cunningham left his sword and fled immediately to Charleston to the British, where he staid till the close of the war. Another part of service under Captain Dillard was the removal of the Tories families to the country over which the British had sway -- after the Whig families had been ordered to be removed from South Carolina by Lord Rawdon -- that after the pursuit of Cunningham he returned to the ranging business in Ninety Six district -- and served as a mounted Ranger till October 1782 in all fifteen months full -- that he was not in the battle at Ninety Six as stated in the affidavit accompanying this declaration, being in a company of twelve or fifteen sent out by General Greene to watch the movements of Lord Rawdon, and returned to the company of Captain Dillard (who was in the battle) just as it had closed, and we retreated towards Camden -- Captain Dillard had his finger shot off at the battle at Edisto River -- That all his service of fifteen months under Captain Dillard was as a volunteer private soldier --

That he never received a written discharge from service and for the services above he claims [one or more indecipherable words] of his pension.

He hereby relinquishes every claim to a pension or annuity except the present and declares that his name is not on the Pension roll of the Agency of any State except on that of the Agency of the state of Indiana. Sworn to and subscribed the day given aforesaid.

[Veteran was pensioned at the rate of $25.88 per annum based on 7 months service, 4 months in the Infantry and 3 months in the Cavalry.]

[WTG note: the declarant's dates are doubtless wrong. The service he claims in 1780 was more likely to have been in 1782 when Pickens is known to have undertaken a campaign against the Cherokee Indians. All service dates should probably be moved forward 2 years.]

[Facts in file: veteran died September 12, 1838, his widow Elenor Logan, was living in 1838; there is no other information in the file regarding his widow or any children; Thomas Craig, a nephew of the veteran gave testimony in 1833 and was acting as a justice of the peace in Laurens County South Carolina in 1834.]
