State of Tennessee Washington County: Declaration of Adam Harmon for a pension under the act of Congress passed June 7th 1832

On this 8th day of November 1833 personally appeared before me William Gilleyland one of the Justices of the peace in and for the County aforesaid Adam Harmon aged seventy years of age the 15th day of February who being desirous of obtaining the provisions of the act of Congress passed the 7th of June 1832 and being unable to attend the Court of the said County in order to perfect his said claim, made swore to & subscribed the following declaration to wit, that he was born in the County of Shenandoah State of Virginia the 15th day of February 1764 according to the account given him by his parents though the family record is not in his possession: that he was raised in the County & State aforesaid & when the prisoners were conveyed to Winchester for safekeeping he volunteered to perform a tour of duty in the Virginia militia to go and guard said prisoners at Winchester and volunteered under Captain Downy [Downey?] and rendezvoused under said officers & was marched to Winchester in the month of November 1780 and their continued in said service at said Barrics [barracks] until April which exceeded the term for which he volunteered being called a three months tour when he entered but he continued in said service much longer, and when discharged he returned home, though he does not recollect whether he received a written discharge or verbal, however, he was discharged by Captain Downey & returned home in the spring of 1781. That he on his return from service in 1781 removed from Shenandoah to the Western frontiers of North Carolina (now Tennessee) and settled on the Nolichucky [River] on the borders of the Cherokee Nation, when the said Indians were daily killing in the vicinity; & in league with the British, & he immediately was drafted as was also all the militia to repulse the Indians, enrolled under Captain Campbell, of General Martin's command for a three months tour & marched below where Knoxville now stands & into the body of the Cherokee Indians & returned home, without serving the three months out but retreated & came home in six weeks being verbally discharged by Captain

Campbell, shortly after which, he again was drafted to go again into the Cherokee Nation, was placed under Captain Scott of the command of Colonels Sevier [John Sevier] & Chrysty [William Christian?] and marched under said officers to the Nation, and scoured the country & guarded & scouted for more than two months though the enrollment was for three months, and after repulsing the Indians, was discharged by his Captain Scott & returned home, in which several tours he served at least seven months and a half for which he claims a pension, that he has no written or documentary evidence having lost his discharges nor does he know of any person by whom he can establish his said servitude but that Samuel Broyles and Samuel Monk our citizens of his neighborhood known to him & he to them & by whom he can establish the reputation of his service nor is there any Minister of the Gospel in his vicinity by whom he can establish the facts required by the regulations of the War Department, that he from bodily infirmity & extreme rheumatic affliction is unable to attend Court in order to perfect his papers.

Sworn to & subscribed before made this 8th day of November 1833.
